200 B.T. Bell and D.I. Hamilton (Editors) Hoylake & the 1894 Amateur Championship

United Kingdom Grant Books 2001

81p. half leather, slipcase. Limited edition of 95 subscribers copies. Hoylake, otherwise known as The Royal Liverpool Golf Club is one of golf’s most storied venues. Hoylake was one of the courses Bobby Jones played while completing the Grand Slam. Located near Manchester in England, it is a championship links course. The first British Amateur Championship was held at Hoylake in 1885. This book recounts the story of the 1894 Amateur Championship. Included in the back of the book is a reproduction draw sheet from the tournament, showing the progression of the eventual winner John Ball, Jr. A quality book with many B & W illustrations and photographs.

Foreword by David Hamilton. Illustrated from photographs and floor plans of the clubhouse, taken from old sources. (Oblong 4to) green half morocco and cloth, stamped and lettered in gilt, all edges gilt, matching green cloth slipcase. One of 95 “Subscribers Edition” copies. First Edition.

Signed by the editors and Douglas Norval (Captain of the Royal Liverpool Golf Club) on the limitation page. Recounts the story of the 1894 Amateur Championship. Includes a reproduction draw sheet from the tournament, showing the progression of the eventual winner John Ball, Jr. and the publisher’s printed acknowledgments sheet thanking the late John Behrend for his help in preparing this volume, along with others, laid inside clear plastic corner sleeve on rear pastedown, as issued.

253 Clarke, Darren Darren Clarke My Ryder Cup Story
London Hodder & Stoughton 2007
208 p, cloth Written by a key member of the European Team, this enthralling, deeply personal account of how the 2006 Ryder Cup was won at a record-equalling margin affords an unprecedented behind-the-scenes glimpse of the ultimate golf tournament. The day-by-day build-up to an intensely dramatic contest founded on fierce rivalry is described in a highly entertaining anecdotal style. With the author's pen portraits of all the players who took part, a story stretching from hitting the first... Nicely Signed, by the future Open Champion.

Darwin's famous book covering the courses of Scotland, England and Ireland. The illustrations, from original water colours, by Harry Tountree, the New Zealand artist, help to make this one of the fine books in the golf library, setting a high standard of excellence that Mr. Darwin would never fail to meet in his later books. His descriptions of the finest courses in the United Kingdom still stand today, play the course and read the chapter on

338 Darwin, Bernard Introductions by Bernard Darwin
Washington, Texas Dormy House Press 2012
293p. cloth. slipcase 1st ed. ltd to 575 copies only signed and numbered by
This book gives a incredible insight to the diversity of Bernard Darwin’s interest and depth of knowledge in a vast range of subjects, and thankfully golf is his number one source of interest, bringing golf into the world of English literature.

Mr. Daniel Wexler, himself an author and editor of many books on golf, has graciously supplied the Foreword.

The 293-page book has faux leather hard boards with silver gilt lettering and ‘B.R.M.D.’ indented on the front cover. End-sheets display previously unpublished photographs of Bernard Darwin (about 15 years old) in golfing attire on the grounds of his father’s house, Wychfield.

Most of Bernard Darwin’s introductions in this anthology are to books on golf: club histories, playing the game, course design, course maintenance, rules of the game, golfing humour, great players, etc. However, non-golf related subjects, dear to his heart, present his diversified writing talents. Such topics include, but are not limited to; Charles Dickens, Robert Louis Stevenson, Travelogues, the English Language, Railroads, Medicine, Food, Sherlock Holmes, and ‘The Times’ Fourth Leaders.

344 Darwin, Bernard The Riviera Golf Courses

Washington, Texas Dormy House Press 2015

59p. illus. cloth. 1st ed. ltd to 200 copies only signed and numbered by the publisher Dick Verinder and Editor Neil Crafter.

In 1913 The Times of London planned to publish six small books on a diverse range of topics in what was called The Times Series. Five books including Bernard Darwin’s A Dickens Pilgrimage were published. The sixth book, advertised as The Riviera Golf Courses, was to contain a series of Bernardo’s articles from The Times written during a 1913 trip with his wife Elinor to the French Riviera, however, most likely due to the advent of World War I, this final book of the series was never published. Dormy House Press now presents this ‘long-lost’ Darwin book - reminiscent in size, design, and paper of its sister book, A Dickens Pilgrimage. Although the original series of books were not illustrated, guest editor Neil Crafter has added period photographs and a frontispiece portrait of Bernard Darwin c1912. Limited quantity available. As New.

473 Finegan, James W. The Emerald Fairway & Foam-Flecked Seas a Golfers pilgrimage to the golf courses of Ireland

USA Simon and Schuster 1996
287pp Signed by the author. Every golfer dreams of making a pilgrimage to the British isles, to play the exhilarating game to be found on the ground that links land and sea. Increasingly, golfers on this side of the Atlantic have discovered that some of the most magnificent courses in the world-- and some of the most beautiful countryside-- are to be found not in Scotland, but in its near neighbor, Ireland. From the opening drive at Lahinch, just thirty miles from your arrival point at Shannon International Airport, to the spectacular dune-framed holes at Ballybunion, Ireland boasts an extraordinary collection of seaside links. Royal Country Down, Royal Portrush, Portmarnock, Portstewart, Waterville and the Island, the European Club and Baltry-- any one of these would be reason to cross an ocean, and the concentration of all of them on a land mass smaller than the state of Maine makes for a golfer's paradise limited only by your budget and your time. For the tourist or the dreamer, there can be no better guide than James W. Finegan. A passionate advocate and a charming storyteller, Finegan combines a writer’s eye, a historian’s knowledge, and a golfer’s sense of wonder and apprehension to provide an impossibly ambitious grand tour of this beautiful land. In a loop that begins in the West at Lahinch and continues clockwise through both the Republic and Northern Ireland, Finegan covers more than fifty courses, visiting those that have become true shrines of the game, the courses that are well known and respected, and the little-known gems you might otherwise pass right by. He shares the history of the courses, and writes marvelously about the scenic and strategic charms to be found as you play them yourself. And he provides all the information you need to make your arrangements to do just that-- because unlike most championship courses in the United States, the great courses of Ireland are available to the public. In addition to his delightful descriptions of the golf to be found there, Finegan gives us his recommendations for places to stay, ranging from the most modest bed and breakfast to the most magnificent palace-- some thirty accommodations in all. He describes the pleasures to be found off the beaten track: the spectacular views from a country road, or the ancient cathedral that’s worth a stop on the way to the first tee. And because all the travel within the country is done by car, he spells out the actual route from town to town and course to course, as he lays out an itinerary that will surely encounter almost all of the fabled 40 shades of green. Emerald Fairways and Foam-Flecked Seas is a book to be read, to be savored, and to be tucked away in your suitcase when you finally undertake the journey of your dreams. Fine

Important and Rare First Edition of Forgan’s Handbook

Cupar, Scotland: John Innes, 1881.
83, [1] + [6] ad pp. Illustrated with 4 engraved plates; plus figure drawings within text. 7x4¾, publisher’s green cloth-backed pictorial printed gray paper over boards. First Edition. The first golf book to be successful in sales. Forgan founded a famous club-making firm in St. Andrews and his old shop is still open as a museum for visitors. Murdoch states: "This book, somewhat like The Golfer's Manual (1857) in style but considerably more comprehensive in content, includes instruction, history, outstanding golf feats and other golfiana, such as a reprint of a magazine article by Horace G. Hutchinson and a ballade by Andrew Lang. It also includes 'Rules', the local rules for the Old Course at St. Andrews, a 'Glossary of Technical Terms' and a list of ‘Clubs in Great Britain,’ which included, at this early date, six in Ireland.’ First published in 1881 by John Innes, Cupar, Scotland, the book went into numerous reprintings. This is the rare 1st edition, in excellent condition. Ex- Edinburgh public library, with some small library stamps, and a bookplate on inner board, not detracting from this exceptional title.

pp. rare programme to a great event. Won in 2016 by Rory Mclroy. The 1947 winner Harry Bradshaw won by 2 stroke over Flory van Donk

The first Irish Open in 1927 was played at Portmarnock Golf Club from 16 to 18 August. There were 18 holes played on the first two days with the leading 60 players and ties playing a further 36 holes on the final day. In a stiff breeze local professional Willie Nolan led after the first day with a course
On the second day Nolan faded after an 81 and the lead was taken by Henry Cotton on 146 with Jack Smith a shot behind. The cut was 165 and exactly 60 players qualified, including 6 amateurs. Conditions were very poor on the final day with the refreshment and press tents blown down and rain falling in torrents. Jack Smith had an excellent 77 in the morning and with Henry Cotton taking 86, Smith had an 8-shot lead over Cotton and Archie Compston. Smith, however, went to pieces and had a final round of 91 and was overtaken by Cotton, who took 81. George Duncan, starting the final round 14 shots behind, scored 74 and finished with a total of 312, beating Smith by 3 and Cotton by 1. Duncan's score of 74 was remarkable in that it was only two strokes over the new course record, on a day when his 74 and Smith's 77 in the morning were the only two rounds under 80 on the final day. Duncan took the Championship Gold Medal and the first prize of £150. Nolan was the leading Irishman, finishing fifth.

In 1932 and 1933, the Irish Open was preceded by an international match between teams of English and Irish professionals. England won the first match 16–2 and the second match 13–3 with 2 halves. The matches followed the same form as the England–Scotland Professional Match that had been played just before the Open Championship.

The Irish Open has generally been played in June, July, or August, but from 2004 to 2009 it was played in May, the week before the BMW PGA Championship. In 2010 and 2011 the tournament was moved to a later date at the end of July, while from 2012 to 2014 it was played in late June.

The Irish Open enjoys one of the largest galleries on the European Tour. In 2010, the Irish Open at Killarney Golf & Fishing Club had an attendance of 85,179 over four days, second only to the BMW PGA Championship. In 2011, the Irish Open at Killarney Golf & Fishing Club tallied in excess of 86,500 over four days. This was again the second highest on the European Tour to the BMW PGA Championship. In 2012, the Irish Open at Royal Portrush Golf Club had a record attendance of 112,000 over four days; 131,000 over the six days. This was the only time a European Tour event had sold out prior to play on all four days and was the highest attendance ever recorded on the European Tour.

Since 2008 it has been the only European Tour event played in Ireland. The European Open was held at the K Club in Straffan for thirteen years from 1995 to 2007 while the 2007 Seve Trophy and the 2006 Ryder Cup were the last major team competitions played in Ireland.

592 Grant, J.P. Banff Golf Club Bazaar 1st May 1895
Banff, Scotland Banffshire Journal 1895
47p illus. wrapps. 1st ed. Golf club Bazaar’s where a popular in several clubs, published for a specific day, these books are very hard to come by. Scottish club bazaar books are few and rare.
Although Golf is supposed to have been played in Banff for 400 years, it was only in May 1871 that organised golf was conceived with the foundation of the Banff Golf Club. The name and structure of the course was changed in 1909, when it was renamed the Duff House Royal Golf Club. The bazaar book includes 'The Golfer's Song' by Jason Mackintosh of Banff. This is a rare item of late 19th-century 'golfiana'. It consists of poems, songs and short stories by members of the Club, as well as portraits of local worthies. The publication was produced to coincide with a bazaar to raise funds for a new clubhouse and improvements to the course. The Banff Golf Club was founded in 1871, the members playing on a course on Banff links, although golf had of course been played in the area for centuries. The Club continued until 1924 when it amalgamated with another Banff club, the Duff House Club to become the Duff House Royal Golf Club. Banff: the Club 1895 - Scarce publication, published 1st May 1895, to commemorate the bazaar held to raise funds for the new club-house and course alterations. The Banff Golf Club, in Scotland, was founded in 1871, and became The Duff House Royal Golf Club in 1925. Contains a short history of the birth and development of the club, numerous comical sketches of local characters, several poems, and the words and musical score to The Golfers' Song, by James MacIntosh. Lithographed portraits and illustrations, light foxing. Original colored pictorial wrappers (showing a view of Banff from the bridge and a golfer in mid-swing with two ladies looking on), sl soiled with some light wear to the lower portion of the spine. A very good copy of this scarce and highly collectible souvenir. EXQUISITE AND RARE 19TH

United States of America, 1938.

First Edition.

Rare and important golf architecture booklet in fine condition, by Robert Trent Jones (1906-2000), the great golf architect and overall ambassador to the game (not to be confused with Bobby Tyre Jones). In the early 1930's, Jones joined Stanley Thompson, the respected Canadian golf course architect. By the mid-1930's he left Thompson and struggled through the depression era creating public courses as part of the Work Progress Administration. It was not until after WWII that his career really took off. His redesign of Oakland Hills GC for the 1951 U.S. Open became known as "The Monster." Jones was a founding member and past president of the American Society of Golf Course Architects and recipient of the first Donald Ross Award. Hailed as the father of modern golf course architecture, Trent Jones' design career spanned seven decades and included nearly 500 new courses and nearly as many redesigns and remodels. Bobby Jones said that Trent Jones was the best golfing golf course architect he ever encountered. Fine

First Edition. A cornerstone book for a golf library. The first book written by a playing golf professional and, thus, the forerunner of many books in which a champion would reveal the "secret" of his success. Park also includes important historical data on equipment, with an important chapter on course architecture. "In composing the chapter entitled 'Laying Out and Keeping Golf-Links,' Park became the first practising golf course architect to illuminate the theoretical and practical aspects of his design philosophy" - Spine faded, solid contents

A FANTASTIC OLD ORIGINAL POST CARD SHOWING 'TOM MORRIS'. OF ST. ANDREWS IN SCOTLAND. IT SHOWS OLD TOM WITH THE TOWN OF ST. ANDREWS BEHIND HIM. THIS CARD IS THE WELL KNOWN PHOTOGRAPH OF OLD TOM OUT ON THE COURSE TAKEN BY THE WELL-KNOWN PHOTOGRAPHER OF EDINBURGH, JAMES PATRICK.

THIS CARD HAS PARTICULAR INTEREST IN THAT IT WAS POSTED FROM ONE MISS FAIRLIE TO ANOTHER. COL. J.O.FAIRLIE WAS THE FIRST 'SPONSOR' OF OLD TOM. HE TOOK HIM TO PRESTWICK WHEN TOM WAS THIRTY YEARS OLD. HE REMAINED THERE UNTIL 1865 WHEN HE RETURNED TO ST.ANDREWS. SUCH WAS THEIR RELATIONSHIP THAT OLD TOM NAMED HIS SECOND SON, HIS FIRST WAS YOUNG TOM, J O FAIRLIE MORRIS AFTER THE COLONEL.

Rare cabbinett photo. Frederick Guthrie Tait (11 January 1870 – 7 February 1900) was an amateur golfer and Scottish soldier. He won the Amateur Championship twice, in 1896 and again in 1898, by convincing margins. Over his short golf career, Tait recorded at least 28 tournament victories. He tied for third place in the Open Championship in both 1896 and 1897. Tait was killed in action at Koodoosberg, South Africa, during the Second Boer War on 7 February 1900 and is buried there. A memorial plaque to his (and his father's) memory stands on the inner north wall of St Johns Episcopal Church on Princes Street in Edinburgh. Very good, no scratching 1514 Taylor, J.H. "editor by" The Golfer’s Record of Games.

London: Dow and Low. n.d. ca. 1920

Taylor writes the introduction “The marvelous spread of the game of Golf during the last decade, and the multitude of Links that are now to be found scattered up and down the country, are responsible for the migratory habits of the modern Golfer.

He is not content to confine his prowess to his own particular district, but rather is he inclined to wander further afield in order to test the possibilities of different courses, and by so doing to improve and consolidate his stock of playing knowledge, for it has passed into a truism that nothing improves one’s game more than playing over different courses, which has the effect... of expanding the player’s golfing intellect of how the various strokes should be played under the manifold conditions of wind, weather, and environment.

This multiplicity of Links, proving as it does the strongest possible evidence in favour of the healthiness of the game, yet has its drawbacks to the Golfer of wandering tendencies, inasmuch as it is impossible for him to carry in his mind the peculiarities and subtleties of its own that every course undoubtedly possesses in the way that the hazards are placed, the state of the greens and of the many and one things that strike the eye on the occasion of a first visit.

In this little Book the golfing public can make such memoranda at the time, which may be referred to again whenever necessary, thereby fortifying the player against the dangers and troubles that lie ahead of him, and which must be encountered during the progress of the game.

For this reason I hope the Book will be acceptable, and also prove a pleasing record of games that have been played.
